A quote from my retreat.

Do you remember I wrote about my annual Retreat in Mullaghmore, last August? The Retreat Director gave us some super quotes to work on. See below from Carlo Carretto

“How do you follow the way?

Go where you are sent. Wait until you are shown what to do. Do it with your whole self. Remain until you have done what you were sent to do, then walk away with empty hands.

How much will it cost?

The cost is everything, for all you are and all you have will be asked of you before the journey runs its course.

How will you know your fellow travelers?

Their faces will be marked by the scars of love. No one will ever tell you that the way is easy: only that it is possible.

No one can tell you if the journey is worthwhile, for your wages are concealed in the hands of God and will be shown to you only on the last day of eternity. But whoever chooses to follow the way will have the joyous company of God's beloved fools as fellow travelers and a resting place, at journey's end, in the heart of God.”

I have several more that could take a day to meditate/pray with. I find I need to read it about once an hour for a day.

Fr Philip PP (Slowly does it.)

HARVEST THANKSGIVING

Saturday 24th /Sunday 25th October

As we give thanks to God for the blessings of the harvest, we invite parishioners to bring gifts of fresh fruit and vegetables, bread, jams and chutneys, whether home grown/made or purchased, to all Masses on the weekend of 24th/25th October. Please place them on the tableau in the Sanctuary area before Mass, or as part of the Offertory Procession. The gifts will be distributed to families in need in our local community, by the Society of St Vincent de Paul. Every contribution will be greatly appreciated.

This Weekend is World Mission Sunday. This collection will replace the SHARE collection.

October and World Mission Sunday is a time for the faithful of the world to show their appreciation towards the work of overseas missionaries.
